

How soon can I get help?

If you have little or no income and need help quickly, tell your local DCF Service Center. You may be able to get assistance in seven days. Otherwise, your application will be processed within 30 days.

How long can I have assistance?

There are no time limits as long as you meet the eligibility requirements.

Are there any other food assistance programs available?

Yes. DCF has a food commodity program. For more information about where to pick up commodity food in your county, call your local DCF Service Center.

What other help can I get?

If you are eligible for food assistance, you may also be eligible for cash, child care or medical assistance, which can help pay for doctor bills and medication. You may also get help to pay for your Medicare premiums and co-payments. Check with your local DCF Service Center for more information.

Kansas Food Assistance Program

What is the Kansas Food Assistance Program?

The Food Assistance Program (formerly known as the Food Stamp Program) helps people with little or no income buy nutritious food. It provides benefits to eligible individuals and families to buy food, even vegetable plants and seeds, from local grocery stores.

How does the program work?

Monthly benefits are provided on a Vision card, which looks and acts like a debit card. Simply swipe your card at the store when purchasing food and the cost is electronically subtracted from the card account.

Who is eligible for the program?

- Persons who work, but have a low income, as well as those who do not work may be eligible.
- You and anyone who lives in your household and eats with you. Household members do not have to be related to be considered part of the household.
- Persons age 60 and older and persons with disabilities. Disabled persons include those receiving Supplemental Security Income, Social Security disability payments, certain Veterans disability payments, disability retirement benefits for a permanent disability, and railroad disability.

How many resources can I have and still receive food assistance?

You can have up to $2,000 in resources. If one person in your household is age 60 or older or disabled, you can have up to $3,250 in resources. Resources include cash and checking/savings account balances. Certain resources like your home and car are not counted.

Do I need to be a U.S. Citizen to receive food assistance?

U.S. citizens and certain legal non-citizens are eligible for food assistance benefits when other eligibility requirements are met. If you are not eligible due to immigration status, your legal resident or citizen children may still qualify. Citizenship verification or non-citizen documentation is required for the individuals you are applying for.

If I receive food assistance, will I be a public charge?

No. You and your family can apply for and receive food assistance without hurting your chances of becoming U.S. citizens.

How do I apply?

Applying for assistance is easy. Applications are available at your local DCF Service Center or Access Point, or can be requested by calling toll-free 1-888-369-4777. Online applications are available at www.dcf.ks.gov. You can leave parts of the application blank if you do not understand how to complete them. Return your application to DCF and someone will contact you to set up an interview. You may request your interview be held in the office or over the phone.

What information do I need to give DCF to apply for food assistance?

- Identification such as birth certificate or driver's license
- Non-citizen documentation if you are not a United States citizen
- Social Security number for you and any household members who are applying for food assistance
- Proof of earned and unearned income
- Proof of assets such as checking and savings account balances

If I am eligible, how much can I get?

Benefit amounts are based on household size and income after deductions. If eligible, you will receive an electronic EBT card (Vision card) to purchase groceries. Benefit amounts are listed on the insert.
